Vaccination Campaign at El Porvenir

Viruses and bacterias that cause illnesses, and even death, can be prevented by vaccines which are a mechanism for controlling many infectious diseases. These diseases have a huge economic and social impact, and as a result they also bring medical consultations, hospitalizations and premature deaths.

As health strategy, vaccination is undoubtedly the best investment in public health. It implies not only a benefit to the health of the individual himself/herself but also conducive to the whole community.

Deworming of Children at our Daycare Centers

Helminths are a group of parasites commonly referred to as worms and include schistosomes and soil-transmitted helminths. Schistosome and soil-transmitted helminth infections are among the most common infections in developing countries and can impair nutritional status by causing:

- Internal bleeding which can lead to loss of iron and anemia;
- Malabsorption of nutrients;
- Diarrhoea; and
- Loss of appetite which can lead to a reduction in energy intake.

Infections can also cause cognitive impairment as well as tissue damage that may require corrective surgery.

The nutritional impairment caused by schistosome and soil-transmitted helminth infections during childhood has been shown to have a significant impact on growth and development of children. That's why we provide periodic treatment (deworming) for children together with good water and sanitation, and health education in an effort to reduce the transmission of schistosome and soil-transmitted helminth infections.
